Woodstock homes, appliances zapped

CMP takes no responsibility for thousands of dollars in damages

By WENDY HANSCOM

A power surge in Woodstock last week damaged thousands of dollars worth of household appliances.

Brian Strickland of Woodstock is compiling a list of damaged goods. He estimated the total loss at more than $100,000.

At least 50 homes got an extra jolt of electricity around 4 a.m. Monday, Nov. 28, when a pickup truck struck a transmission pole.

Televisions, VCRs and microwave ovens seemed to be hit hardest. Items with a steady flow of electricity to them, such as VCRs or microwaves with clocks were especially vulnerable.

Hot water heaters, humidifiers, alarm systems, satellite dish receivers, stoves, computers, light fixtures and other items were also zapped.

Surge protectors saved some appliances, including the town's computer.

Homeowners are tallying up their damages, and some are asking who's financially responsible for their losses.

CMP says "not us"

Central Maine Power officials say the company isn't responsible for the surge and the resulting damages, but the insurance carrier of the driver who hit the pole may be.

Some homeowners' insurance policies may pay part of the damages. But most policies have varying deductibles, Strickland said.

Helen Reavis, 70, of Bryant Pond was the driver of the pickup. She suffered a broken nose in the accident and was treated and released from Stephens Memorial Hospital.

The power surge occurred, according to CMP spokesman Monique da Silva, when Reavis hit the pole.

"A transmission line carries power from the source of generation to a substation, which means it's a very high voltage line," da Silva said. "Distributor lines carry voltage from the substation, where it's broken down into lesser voltage, to the customer's home. When the truck drove into the transmission line pole, transmission wires touched the distribution wires and when that happened it set off a

Girls basketball

Rebels shooting to break winless streak

By WENDY HANSCOM

They have the heart and the makings of a winning squad, but the lack of varsity experience may hold the Telstar High School girls basketball team back a bit this year, according to coach Ray Seames.

"The girls are greatly improved over last year," Seames said. "Clearly they need to develop both as a team and individually. But I expect them to improve consistently throughout the year. Our games should be much more competitive than last year. On any given night, we have the potential of beating any team in the league."

That potential comes from the starting guards, he said.

"Senior Laura Seames, and sophomores Beth Howe and Sarah Richardson will be starting guards," the coach said. "Each is capable of having a big game. As a unit, they should consistently score more than 30 points a game."

The team's strength is its dedication to doing better, Seames said. The girls have been working hard to improve their skills and are much quicker than last year, he said.

But the team is young, with seven sophomores on the varsity squad, and the lack of varsity experience and complete basic skills may hurt the Rebels.

Telstar lost four experienced players to graduation, Jen Bean, Cheri Myers, Laura Seames and Teresa Curtis.

But the girls have some talent to build on, and plenty of young players.

Former B.A.H.C. counselor arrested

By MICHAEL DANIELS

State officials are investigating allegations that a former mental health counselor at the Bethel Area Health Center practiced here without a license.

Charles H. Gill was arrested by Oxford County Sheriff's Deputies Tuesday morning on a charge of failure to appear on an outstanding warrant from Knox County. He was being held Tuesday in the Oxford Jail.

According to Knox County court records, Gill faced an outstanding charge from 1988 for operating a vehicle after suspension for OUI.

But local law enforcement officials are apparently more interested in allegations that Gill practiced at the Bethel Area Health Center and elsewhere without a license.

Capt. Jim Miclon of the county sheriff's office said that a woman whose son had been treated by Gill in Norway and Fryeburg accused Gill of practicing without a license.

Miclon said that the state Bureau of Licensing and Enforcement confirmed that Gill was not licensed to practice in Maine.

SAD44 directors complain:

NOVA's no bargain

By WENDY HANSCOM

SAD44 administrators are worried they're not getting their money's worth from the Northern Oxford Vocation Area.

SAD44 contributes about $206,000 to NOVA each year, or about a fifth of NOVA's budget. This year about 16 students will attend NOVA courses, according to SAD44 Superintendent Ronald Jenkins.

Other NOVA members include SAD43 (Rumford area), SAD 21 (Dixfield), and the towns of Hanover, Upton and Gilead.

A majority of NOVA's classes are held in the greater-Rumford area, making it difficult for Telstar students to attend, according to Jenkins.

Students must travel 25 miles to most NOVA classes, leaving their friends and peers behind, Jenkins said.

For each NOVA class offered, a certain number of seats are set aside for Telstar students, Jenkins said. But there are rarely enough Telstar students to fill all the designated slots. Seats left open -- but essentially paid for by SAD44 -- are being filled by students from other schools, Jenkins said.

"This year we have 16 students participating in the NOVA program, with six of them housed here in the business education course, and two were in truck driving here," he said. "Essentially we're transporting eight students to NOVA. Next semester we have five new students going in and four continuing. When kids leave their home school they're missing out on activities and being forced to travel."

Jenkins asked the board to authorize negotiations with NOVA that might bring more vocational courses to Telstar.

"I think the most we might hope for is to ask for more programs here that will attract more students," Jenkins told the board. "I don't think pulling out (of NOVA) will be an option. But we have to find some way to get more kids involved."

Mechanic St. plan reviewed

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Mechanic Street sewer and storm drain work -- the final phase of Bethel's Downtown Revitalization Project -- was back before the Board of Selectmen Monday evening.

The Mechanic Street work is an "add on" to the original project, made possible by savings and lower-than-expected costs in earlier phases of the $2.6 million project.

However, the work, originally envisioned for the fall of 1993, has now been put off until at least the spring of 1995.

The postponement was caused by the need to acquire clear title to the right of way along the street, according to Town Manager Madeline Henley.

Also, the selectmen hope the Bethel Water District will be able to put in new water lines while the road is open for the sewer and storm drain work, but the town won't learn until next month whether it has been successful in obtaining a federal grant to pay for the water line work.

One sidewalk, no parking

The current plan for Mechanic Street work calls for two 12-foot-wide travel lanes and one five-foot-wide sidewalk. Granite curbing would run along both sides of the road and there would be no on-street parking.

Selectman Rick Whitney said Monday that, given the likelihood the street would eventually "go commercial," it might be wise to provide room now for on-street parking.

But such a move would require the town to take a 50-foot, rather than 40-foot right of way, and the selectmen felt such a decision should be made by the residents of the street, not by the board.

"If they think they need the parking, and they're willing as a group to give up five feet," said selectman John Thurston, the board would certainly be willing to consider adding the parking.

DIDN'T ASK FOR THAT TRAIL

To the Editor:

Here are the other facts Mr. Hayes, plain, simple, and very much true. You talk about the many hours of volunteer work put into these projects, as I can very well verify. However, you also state that the law in the State of Maine says that you must receive permission from the landowner in order to use his/her land. As I stated above, I could verify the volunteer work being done, and I shall.

Two years ago, I took my son to his woodlot in Greenwood, which is recorded in the Oxford County Register of Deeds and has been since 1985, to repaint his property line. As we approached the lot, we noticed a bulldozed road which, when we had been there six months prior to this, was an old twitch road grown up with bushes. After continuing along, we noticed a culvert had been put in. Additionally, trees on the side of the road up to six inches around had been cut and left there, and a bridge had been built.

After returning home and making numerous phone calls, I was told this was done by the Greenstock Snow Sports Club. I made a phone call to Mr. Hayes and was told they thought this was P.H. Chadbourne's land. Now, this was all done without any verbal or written permission from the landowner. So, as far as your facts go, Mr. Hayes, who are we supposed to believe?

LET'S WORK TOGETHER ON TRAILS

To the Editor:

Area members of the Western Maine Mountain Jeepers are concerned over the recent letters The Citizen has received regarding bridge and trail use.

Our club was formed in 1991 in response to the Maine Bureau of Public Land closing roads to an area which had previously been open for various recreational activities. Along with local fire and rescue departments we met with representatives from the state to voice our concerns. During the past three years our membership has grown to 57 families from eight states, Canada, and Iceland. The club is active in the United Four Wheel Drive Association and in the U.S. Forest Service sponsored Tread Lightly program. The club and its family oriented membership is dedicated to obtaining, maintaining and creating trails which are open for "multiple use."

Along with United and Tread Lightly we recognize that the thrill of experiencing the great outdoors can be accomplished in a peaceful coexistence with all users of the trail network. We encourage trail use by four-wheel drive vehicles, ATVs, snowmobiles, trail bikes, cross country skiers, hikers, or anybody who wants to enjoy the fresh air and scenery.

We have in the past and will continue to promote combined projects with the local snowmobile clubs to maintain trails. In the area of bridge building we have the equipment and know-how to build structures suitable for all trail users. In an effort to advance the "multiple use" aspect of our planning, we encourage all interested groups or individuals to work with us to expand the scope of our area trail network. For more information about the club please contact one of the following: President Geoff Gaudreau, 824-2807; Vice President Doug Wilson or Treasurer Jodie Wilson, 824-3180; or Secretary Jeff Beebe, 583-2724.

TRAILS SHOULD BE FOR EVERYONE

To the Editor:

I am writing this letter in response to the letters published in the Bethel Citizen last week (11/30/94). First, let's get the real facts straight: 1) We did not demand to cross the bridge, we simply asked; 2) No one said the bridge was unsafe. Mr. Hartford just repeatedly stated that it would cost us $15 apiece to cross it; 3) not one of the people asked or appeared to want our help; and 4) as I wrote in my letter, these trails were not posted.

After reading the letters, I feel the people voiced their opinions very well. Too bad it only supports my theory that the Greenstock Snowmobile Club is only looking out for themselves, even if this destroys the enjoyment of others.

I was not aware of the law banning any vehicles on snowmachine trails other than "snowmachines or appurtenant equipment, without written permission of land owners." I guess I have been breaking the law, along with a lot of other people, when I drive my truck or ATV on these trails to go hunting, fishing, or just for a ride through the woods.

It is my belief that these trails can be enjoyed by numerous people, cross-country skiers, hikers, campers, hunters, fishermen, etc. The snowmobile clubs maintain these trails and I appreciate their hard work, but I don't understand why the trails should be exclusively for the use of snowmobilers, and I don't believe I did anything wrong in riding my ATV on unposted, bare-ground trails.

Back for another year on the squad are seniors Beth Craig and co-captains Jill Olson and Seames. Other team members are juniors Becky Chandler and M. J. Learned and sophomores Howe, Richardson, Jana Mason, Sarah Seames, Kelli Szentie, Jessica Pike and Carrie Mason.

The Rebels went winless last season, posting an 0-16 record.

The Mountain Valley Conference is tough, but shouldn't be unbeatable for this year's Rebels, Seames said.

The girls opened the season Tuesday against Leavitt. The first home game of the season is scheduled for Tuesday, Dec. 13 against Lisbon. J.V. play begins at 5:30, and the varsity should play about 7 p.m.

GIFT OF TIME
Judy Haskell, chairperson of the Bethel Historical Society's Museum Committee, stands with a grandfather clock left to the society by the late Muriel Park Mason. The early 19th century grandfather's clock is believed to have once been the property of Ayers Mason, brother of Dr. Moses Mason. The announcement of the bequest was made at the society's December monthly meeting by the society president, Charles Raymond. Ayers Mason was the grandfather of Harry E. Mason, husband of Muriel Park Mason. The works of the clock were made in England by Osborne and Wilson, which manufactured considerable quantities of clock parts for American clock makers between 1770 and 1825. A note on the case indicates that the cords for the weights were last installed by Bethel Jeweler E.P. Lyon in 1916. Funds from the society's Austin F. Twitchell Memorial Fund have been used to repair and recondition the clock so that visitors during the 1995 season will be able to see this gift and enjoy it as part of the museum experience. "This is a major gift to the Dr. Moses Mason House Museum and one that will be treasured by members and visitors for years to come," observed Raymond in announcing the gift. "We are certainly grateful for Mrs. Mason's generosity in making this acquisition possible and for her foresight in placing a major Mason family heirloom in our Mason house."

Mechanic Street

Trees also stand in the way of on-street parking.

In the current plan, the town has attempted to lay the road out in such a way that none of the large shade trees along Mechanic Street will need to come down, but even so, sparing all the trees may not be possible, Henley said, because pathways must be opened up for relocated utility lines.

If the wider right of way is used, a number of trees would certainly have to come down. "We'd be taking a tiger by the tail if we try to take those shade trees down," said Bob Chadbourne.

In 1992, when the lower Main Street revitalization work was being laid out, a similar parking-versus-lawn-and-trees dilemma led to near revolt by some residents.

A compromise solution was eventually worked out for lower Main Street, but neither the residents nor the board members expressed much satisfaction with the final product.

Henley said no Mechanic Street residents have objected to the current plan -- except for one person who expressed concern about where the relocated utility poles would go.

The selectmen agreed Monday to hold an informational meeting on Jan. 12 to allow for further public discussion of the plan.

Airport lease

The selectmen also discussed a draft lease between the town and future fixed-base operators (FBO) at the Col. Dyke Airport.

Bethel Air Service is currently operating at the airport, but without a lease. An earlier lease between the town and the Bethel Aviators Group (of which BAS is a member) expired last month.

The draft under consideration

Monday had been prepared by town planning assistant Nancy Schleiper and the Bethel Airport Advisory Committee. The draft is based on a version used at the Lewiston-Auburn Airport.

The selectmen reviewed the draft at length, focusing on such considerations as insurance coverage, liability, the term of the lease and the range of services to be provided by the FBO.

They then accepted the document "in concept" and instructed Henley to send it to the town attorney for review and further refinement.

Water trustee vote delayed

Monday evening's meeting concluded with an hour-long secret session devoted to either replacing or reappointing Water District trustee Jack Brooks.

Following the session, however, no vote was taken.

is also investigating the case, Miclon said.

Health Center executive director George Larson issued a prepared statement Tuesday afternoon, saying that in light of events surrounding Gill, the center was assessing the quality and continuity of its care.

But Larson said that on the advice of the center's attorney he would not comment further on the matter.

The statement reads as follows: "We have been contacted by state authorities regarding the allegations against Charles Gill and are cooperating with them pursuant to our obligations under the law.

"Charles Gill performed his last services in behalf of the health center on Nov. 22, 1994. We are naturally very concerned about the implications of these allegations upon our patients, and are conducting an inquiry to assess the care provided to them and to assure that they receive the quality and continuity of treatment that they have a right to expect from the Bethel Area Health Center.

"We are also conducting an inquiry to assess the ramifications of the allegations against Mr. Gill upon the health center itself.

"In light of the sensitivity of the rights of both our patients and Mr. Gill, we decline further comment at this time."

Directors nix privatization

By WENDY HANSCOM

SAD44 School Board directors will look no further into privatizing some district functions. Bethel director Merton Brown had proposed that the board vote on whether or not the district should study privatization. But the board voted unanimously last week against the study.

Most of the board members who spoke on the issue said they were not opposed to a study, but didn't want it to cost the district money. Several also said they thought ultimately they'd be opposed to privatization because of the loss of local control over teachers, bus drivers and other employees and programs.

Brown said he voted against his own agenda item because, "I could see the handwriting on the wall and nobody at that level was interested. If the citizens who talked to me are interested in pursuing it, then I guess it will have to be a grassroots effort. I could see the board wasn't interested."

THIS WEEK AT THE

Moses Mason House

The smell of hot mulled cider, the glow of fires in the fireplaces, the flickering of candles, the aroma of fresh Christmas treats, and the melodic resonances of the flute were among the experiences enjoyed by those attending the annual "Christmas with the Masons" at the Dr. Moses Mason House on Thursday evening, Dec. 1.

In the meeting room, the West Parish Congregational Church's Bell Choir provided a concert, followed by Edna York at the piano for group singing of Christmas favorites. The house was decorated, as it might have been in the early 19th century, with berries, boughs and fruit. Special thanks go to the Bell Choir, to Edna York, to Gretchen Ewall for playing the flute, and to guides Lorrie Hoch, Judy Haskell, Helen Morton, Sylvia Wight and Shireen Vincent for their role in making the event once again a highlight of the year.

Following "Christmas with the Masons," a short business meeting was conducted by society president Charles Raymond. He announced that the next meeting would feature the annual "So You Think You Know Bethel" on Jan. 5. The president called attention to the fact that the society would once again hold its 25-percent-off sale and that the "Gift of the Month" was a copy of society curator Randall Bennett's new book on the history of the White Mountains. This was a gift from the author. A slide show of old photos made during the past year followed the business meeting.

Presently a thousand members strong, the Bethel Historical Society is Western Maine's largest and most comprehensive full-time local historical society, dedicated to preserving and interpreting the region's past. Its activities include monthly meetings, exhibits, lectures, special events, school programs and publications. The society's operations are housed in its headquarters, the Dr. Moses Mason House (1813), which contains a period house museum, meeting room, research facilities, and office. Its quarterly, "The Bethel Courier," is sent to more than 1100 members and friends throughout the United States, Canada and Europe.

TIF meeting Monday

By MICHAEL DANIELS

There will be an informational meeting Monday, Dec. 12, on the possibility of tax increment financing (TIF) for Bethel Station infrastructure work.

Last month the project's developers requested that the town consider a $340,000 TIF agreement to underwrite the cost of utility work along the new parkway and electrical work along Cross Street.

The request was necessitated, according to developer Heinie Merrill, by delays in gaining approval for a federal grant that the developers (and town officials) hope will pay for much of the project infrastructure.

The TIF would not require the town to put out any money or assume any financial liability. Instead, the town would agree to forego, for a period of five years, 29 percent of the additional tax revenue generated by new Bethel Station development.

The developers would then use that agreement as collateral for a $340,000 bank loan, that would be used to pay for the utilities and electrical work.

Without the TIF, Merrill said, the project will be delayed and Bethel will ultimately lose more in tax revenues than it is being asked to forego in the TIF.

Monday evening's informational meeting is the first of two that will be held on the TIF proposal. The second will be held in late January, followed by a public hearing on Jan. 30 and a referendum vote on Feb. 14.

Monday's meeting will be held in the lecture hall at Telstar.

Androscoggin to be tested weekly

BETHEL--The Bethel Pollution Prevention Team has made tentative plans to begin testing Androscoggin River water quality weekly from late May to late September. Up to five sites in the greater-Bethel area could be tested. The sites targeted include the Shelburne Dam in New Hampshire, the Route 2 bridge in Gilead, Newt's Landing in West Bethel, Bridge Street in Bethel and the junction of the Bear and Androscoggin rivers in Newry. The group will probably monitor E. coli bacteria, dissolved oxygen, water temperature and turbidity. The cost of testing the water next summer would be about $500. The group will seek donations from organizations and individuals to cover the cost, and would like to find someone who commutes regularly to Portland to transport the samples.

Practical joke with baby not so funny

AUBURN--An Auburn mother and area police got a scare last week when a 15-month-old baby girl was taken from a car on Flanders Street. For 45 minutes, police frantically search for the daughter of Susan Tyler, 19, after the child was reported missing from the car, parked in Tyler's driveway. Tyler left the child briefly to run into the house for some items, police said. Authorities had called a police dog to the scene, but before it arrived, Robert Howard, 22, also of Flanders Street, called to report that the baby was with him in West Paris. Howard told police he took the child to teach the mother not to leave the baby alone in a car. Howard, who is married to Tyler's sister, was issued a summons charging a Class D misdemeanor of criminal restraint. Police said the youngster was with Howard the entire time and was never in danger. "He loves that child to death," said Betty Tyler, Susan's mother. "We don't want him coming off looking like a bad guy. ... He's really sorry. He didn't mean to cause all of this. He learned a lesson as well as us." An Auburn police detective said the entire incident, including Howard's charge, "should teach everyone a lesson not to leave a child unattended in a car, and never to take a child" without informing the parent or guardian.

Andover/MCI settle for $33,826

ANDOVER--The town has tentatively agreed to pay MCI Telecommunications Corporation a tax abatement of $33,826, according to selectman Kathy Williamson. The recent agreement with the company would spare the town costly litigation. The abatement is in settlement of the company's tax appeals, which date back to 1988. The town has also agreed to drop MCI's 1994 assessment to $3.5 million. "The 1995 tax assessment would be for $4.5 million," Williamson said. "We will work forward from this point for future years, making adjustments for depreciations and any improvements added. We have agreed to make payment of this abatement within 30 days." An informational meeting on the settlement proposal will be held Dec. 12 at 7 p.m. at the Town Hall. The town's attorney and assessor will be at the meeting.

Bennett's new book now available

BETHEL--Randall H. Bennett's new book "The White Mountains," is now available at the Bethel Historical Society. The book is a chronological record of the people, localities and events of the White Mountains of western Maine and northern New Hampshire. The 128-page book features more than 200 photographs, documents and engravings from the author's private collection, as well as those of other collectors and historical societies. Bennett is curator of the Bethel Historical Society. His book is available by mail for $14.99 plus $3 for shipping (Maine residents should add 6 percent sales tax) from the Bethel Historical Society, Box 12, Bethel, Maine 04217. The book may also be purchased at the historical society's gift shop or in selected bookstores.

Newry needs Planning Board alternate

NEWRY--Selectmen are looking for an alternate to join the town's Planning Board. A vacancy was created recently when Brooks Morton resigned and alternate David Walker was moved up to full-member status. Anyone interested in the position should contact a selectman. Other Planning Board members are chairman Don Sanstrom, Joe Aloisio, Cindy Brown, Hugh Lynch, Brian Hanscom and Joanne Mercier.

West Paris may get waste storage site

WEST PARIS--Brian Rogers of Otisfield, owner of BAR Co., hopes to purchase a 63-acre site and buildings in West Paris and open a waste storage business. There would be disposal on site, Rogers recently told selectmen. The facility will be used to load refuse and later haul it to a disposal facility. Rogers expected the station will process 10,000 to 12,000 tons of trash in the first year.

Tourism booms in Maine

AUGUSTA--Maine spent $326,898 this spring to promote tourism and it paid big dividends -- $36.9 million in spending by visitors and $2.4 million in taxes. Officials are calling the ad campaign an overwhelming success. The campaign targeted on the East Coast from New York to Washington, D.C. Rangeley used a $53,954 grant to target eastern Massachusetts. Rangeley tourism officials estimate the campaign generated an additional $460,000 for merchants there. A 20 percent drop in tourists from Canada prompted the new advertising campaign, according to state tourism officials.

Boise breaks safety record

RUMFORD--Boise Cascade Corp. recently broke its old production records and reached another milestone in its safety program. Employees at the paper mill recorded one million safe hours during November. A safe hour is defined as a period in which a worker hasn't been injured seriously enough that they can't report for the next scheduled work day, according to company officials. Last month the company also broke pulp and paper production records. The mill produced 1,691 tons of pulp and paper per day last month, beating the previous record of 1,662 set in June 1993. Boise has reached the 1,600-ton mark only four or five times in its history, according to company officials.

From the Bethel Police log: Harassing hassle

Dec. 3 a Bethel IGA employee told police a Gilead woman and her son were harassing him at work. The man signed a police order asking that the harassment stop. The Gilead woman called police to say the man's claim was false and she wasn't happy being served with the papers. Police told the woman that no criminal charges were involved. The woman indicated she would probably speak with her attorney and the Bethel chief of police.

Monday, Dec. 5

At 5:20 p.m. police received a report of debris in the road and removed a board with exposed nails from Route 26.

Saturday, Dec. 3

At 2:40 a.m. a newspaper delivery man reported that he could smell "hot plastic" at a Main Street business. The owner was notified.

Friday, Dec. 2

At 4:40 p.m. a Bailey Road woman reported her 5-month-old female bull mastiff puppy had wandered off.

Thursday, Dec. 1

At 10:22 p.m. a Route 5 man complained that a neighbors idling vehicle was too noisy. The vehicle left before police arrived.

At 10:40 p.m. a Suda employee reported seizing a false I.D. card. The card's owner left before police arrived.

Accidents

Nov. 11 - At 5:18 p.m. Dennis M. McLeod, 43, of Bethel hit a deer on Route 2. Damage to his 1985 Nissan was estimated at $500.

This report highlights points of interest from the Bethel Police Department log, but does not include all reports of police activity.

Leaving NOVA would be a complicated process. Each NOVA-member SAD or town would be required to vote on whether or not to let SAD44 out.

Four of the seven "entities" that belong to NOVA would have to be in favor of SAD44 leaving, and a two-thirds vote is required, not a simple majority.

Jenkins said he doubted that residents of SAD43, SAD21, Peru and Hanover could be persuaded to allow SAD44 to pull out -- especially with SAD44 paying about a fifth of the NOVA budget.

NOVA Director Dewaine Craig, a former SAD44 superintendent, said student apathy toward NOVA and low attendance numbers are not new problems for the local district.

"If you only have 16 kids but you have 40 slots open, that's SAD44's problem, not NOVA's," Craig said. "I said that when I sat in (Jenkins) chair. This isn't a new problem for SAD44. It's not any easy problem for SAD44 (to fix)."

surge for a brief moment. The surge blew a fuse which then shut off the power. But when the lines touched there was a surge and it damaged some people's appliances."

Power surges of this nature are rare, da Silva said.

"Fortunately, it's not a common occurrence," she said. "We don't have a lot of situations where we have transmission wires running above distribution wires."

The last surge of this type was at least six years ago, she claimed.

But Strickland said he's not sure when the damage was done -- when the pole was hit or when CMP turned the power on three hours later.

"The big debate with CMP is when the surge happened," Strickland said. "I and a number of people were up when the power came back on and we say it happened then. My VCR came on for a little while, blinking, and then smoke started rolling out of it."

"At least a third of the people here don't have insurance," he said.

But CMP won't be reimbursing its customers for their damaged appliances, da Silva said.

"This was not something we could control, so there's no responsibility to us," she said. "Customers should contact their homeowners insurance agents. The insurance company of the person that hit the pole may be responsible. But we have no connection with the person who caused the accident."

However, Sue Forkus of Woodstock thinks CMP could have avoided the accident by moving the pole that carries the two types of lines.

"That pole gets hit quite frequently," Forkus said. "I can't think of a year it hasn't been hit since I've been here. My question is why is it still there?"

Charles Jacobson, administrative director of the Public Utilities Commission, said even if CMP was at fault, the PUC can't force them to pay up.

"We don't have the authority to force CMP to pay for any damages that may have resulted," Jacobson said, "and that's assuming CMP is star, Craig said, such as offering more courses here. But, he cautioned that even when NOVA courses have been offered at Telstar in the past, not all the available slots were filled.

"There have been two courses at Telstar so far this year," Craig said, "and neither class is full. There are no transportation problems and no leaving-their-peers problems."

Craig has also proposed changing the NOVA day so that vocational students put in more time in the program -- something SAD44 administrators say would be difficult to deal with.

Greater-Rumford area students must now wait for Telstar students to arrive before most NOVA classes begin.

Telstar students arrive at about 8:40 a.m. and must leave between 1:15 and 1:30 p.m. to catch buses home, Craig said.

Craig would like all NOVA courses to begin at 8 p.m. and end around 2 p.m., he said.

Some courses do start earlier than Telstar students arrive, Craig said. Telstar students are sometimes transported in private vehicles to NOVA work sites, he said. They arrive after their classmates from other schools have already started their day.

In November, the NOVA board tabled a decision on whether or not to lengthen the program's day. But NOVA directors are expected to take it up again this month, Craig said.

SAD44 board chairman Margaret Hand is also a NOVA director. She said last week she thought the NOVA board would give SAD44 more time to come up with a plan to include Telstar students in a longer NOVA day.

"It's just another way Telstar students are getting the short end of the stick at NOVA," Hand said.

The next full-board NOVA meetings is scheduled for Dec. 20.

at fault. We can serve as a mediator if needed. People who have complaints can contact us at 1-800-452-4699."

Jacobson agreed with CMP officials that power surges of this type are rare.

That's little consolation to those who will now be spending their Christmas budget on replacement appliances.

Strickland (665-2412) said his list of damaged goods grows daily.

"I'm sure homeowners insurance companies will go after someone, whether it's CMP, or the insurance company of the person who hit the pole. Our goal is to get a unified list of everybody and the equipment they lost, so down the road whoever is doing the reimbursing will know what they're dealing with."

Lt. Ed Quinn of the Oxford County Sheriff's Department has fielded several calls on the accident.

Copies of the accident report are available at the OCSO for homeowners who need them for insurance purposes, Quinn said.

Rev. Lynwood Hanson lost two televisions, but surge protectors saved his microwave, word processor and a third TV.

"It must of been a powerful jolt," Hanson said. "Around the surge protector in our kitchen, there was a small black area. The paint on the wall was blackened."

DIDN'T ASK FOR THAT TRAIL

To the Editor:

Here are the other facts Mr. Hayes, plain, simple, and very much true. You talk about the many hours of volunteer work put into these projects, as I can very well verify. However, you also state that the law in the State of Maine says that you must receive permission from the landowner in order to use his/her land. As I stated above, I could verify the volunteer work being done, and I shall.

Two years ago, I took my son to his woodlot in Greenwood, which is recorded in the Oxford County Register of Deeds and has been since 1985, to repaint his property line. As we approached the lot, we noticed a bulldozed road which, when we had been there six months prior to this, was an old twitch road grown up with bushes. After continuing along, we noticed a culvert had been put in. Additionally, trees on the side of the road up to six inches around had been cut and left there, and a bridge had been built.

After returning home and making numerous phone calls, I was told this was done by the Greenstock Snow Sports Club. I made a phone call to Mr. Hayes and was told they thought this was P.H. Chadbourne's land. Now, this was all done without any verbal or written permission from the landowner. So, as far as your facts go, Mr. Hayes, who are we supposed to believe?

LET'S WORK TOGETHER ON TRAILS

To the Editor:

Area members of the Western Maine Mountain Jeepers are concerned over the recent letters The Citizen has received regarding bridge and trail use.

Our club was formed in 1991 in response to the Maine Bureau of Public Land closing roads to an area which had previously been open for various recreational activities. Along with local fire and rescue departments we met with representatives from the state to voice our concerns. During the past three years our membership has grown to 57 families from eight states, Canada, and Iceland. The club is active in the United Four Wheel Drive Association and in the U.S. Forest Service sponsored Tread Lightly program. The club and its family oriented membership is dedicated to obtaining, maintaining and creating trails which are open for "multiple use."

Along with United and Tread Lightly we recognize that the thrill of experiencing the great outdoors can be accomplished in a peaceful coexistence with all users of the trail network. We encourage trail use by four-wheel drive vehicles, ATVs, snowmobiles, trail bikes, cross country skiers, hikers, or anybody who wants to enjoy the fresh air and scenery.

We have in the past and will continue to promote combined projects with the local snowmobile clubs to maintain trails. In the area of bridge building we have the equipment and know-how to build structures suitable for all trail users. In an effort to advance the "multiple use" aspect of our planning, we encourage all interested groups or individuals to work with us to expand the scope of our area trail network. For more information about the club please contact one of the following: President Geoff Gaudreau, 824-2807; Vice President Doug Wilson or Treasurer Jodie Wilson, 824-3180; or Secretary Jeff Beebe, 583-2724.

TRAILS SHOULD BE FOR EVERYONE

To the Editor:

I am writing this letter in response to the letters published in the Bethel Citizen last week (11/30/94). First, let's get the real facts straight: 1) We did not demand to cross the bridge, we simply asked; 2) No one said the bridge was unsafe. Mr. Hartford just repeatedly stated that it would cost us $15 apiece to cross it; 3) not one of the people asked or appeared to want our help; and 4) as I wrote in my letter, these trails were not posted.

After reading the letters, I feel the people voiced their opinions very well. Too bad it only supports my theory that the Greenstock Snowmobile Club is only looking out for themselves, even if this destroys the enjoyment of others.

I was not aware of the law banning any vehicles on snowmachine trails other than "snowmachines or appurtenant equipment, without written permission of land owners." I guess I have been breaking the law, along with a lot of other people, when I drive my truck or ATV on these trails to go hunting, fishing, or just for a ride through the woods.

It is my belief that these trails can be enjoyed by numerous people, cross-country skiers, hikers, campers, hunters, fishermen, etc. The snowmobile clubs maintain these trails and I appreciate their hard work, but I don't understand why the trails should be exclusively for the use of snowmobilers, and I don't believe I did anything wrong in riding my ATV on unposted, bare-ground trails.

Back for another year on the squad are seniors Beth Craig and co-captains Jill Olson and Seames. Other team members are juniors Becky Chandler and M. J. Learned and sophomores Howe, Richardson, Jana Mason, Sarah Seames, Kelli Szente, Jessica Pike and Carrie Mason.

The Rebels went winless last season, posting an 0-16 record.

The Mountain Valley Conference is tough, but shouldn't be unbeatable for this year's Rebels, Seames said.

The girls opened the season Tuesday against Leavitt. The first home game of the season is scheduled for Tuesday, Dec. 13 against Lisbon. J.V. play begins at 5:30, and the varsity should play about 7 p.m.

GIFT OF TIME
Judy Haskell, chairperson of the Bethel Historical Society's Museum Committee, stands with a grandfather clock left to the society by the late Muriel Park Mason. The early 19th century grandfather's clock is believed to have once been the property of Ayers Mason, brother of Dr. Moses Mason. The announcement of the bequest was made at the society's December monthly meeting by the society president, Charles Raymond. Ayers Mason was the grandfather of Harry E. Mason, husband of Muriel Park Mason. The works of the clock were made in England by Osborne and Wilson, which manufactured considerable quantities of clock parts for American clock makers between 1770 and 1825. A note on the case indicates that the cords for the weights were last installed by Bethel jeweler E.P. Lyon in 1916. Funds from the society's Austin F. Twitcheil Memorial Fund have been used to repair and recondition the clock so that visitors during the 1995 season will be able to see this gift and enjoy it as part of the museum experience. "This is a major gift to the Dr. Moses Mason House Museum and one that will be treasured by members and visitors for years to come," observed Raymond in announcing the gift. "We are certainly grateful for Mrs. Mason's generosity in making this acquisition possible and for her foresight in placing a major Mason family heirloom in our Mason house."

Trees also stand in the way of on-street parking.

In the current plan, the town has attempted to lay the road out in such a way that none of the large shade trees along Mechanic Street will need to come down, but even so, sparing all the trees may not be possible, Henley said, because pathways must be opened up for relocated utility lines.

If the wider right of way is used, a number of trees would certainly have to come down. "We'd be taking a tiger by the tail if we try to take those shade trees down," said Bob Chadbourne.

In 1992, when the lower Main Street revitalization work was being laid out, a similar parking-versus-lawn-and-trees dilemma led to near revolt by some residents.

A compromise solution was eventually worked out for lower Main Street, but neither the residents nor the board members expressed much satisfaction with the final product.

Henley said no Mechanic Street residents have objected to the current plan -- except for one person who expressed concern about where the relocated utility poles would go.

The selectmen agreed Monday to hold an informational meeting on Jan. 12 to allow for further public discussion of the plan.

Airport lease

The selectmen also discussed a draft lease between the town and future fixed-base operators (FBO) at the Col. Dyke Airport.

Bethel Air Service is currently operating at the airport, but without a lease. An earlier lease between the town and the Bethel Aviators Group (of which BAS is a member) expired last month.

The draft under consideration

Monday had been prepared by town planning assistant Nancy Schleiper and the Bethel Airport Advisory Committee. The draft is based on a version used at the Lewiston-Auburn Airport.

The selectmen reviewed the draft at length, focusing on such considerations as insurance coverage, liability, the term of the lease and the range of services to be provided by the FBO.

They then accepted the document "in concept" and instructed Henley to send it to the town attorney for review and further refinement.

Water trustee vote delayed

Monday evening's meeting concluded with an hour-long secret session devoted to either replacing or reappointing Water District trustee Jack Brooks.

Following the session, however, no vote was taken.

is also investigating the case, Miclon said.

Health Center executive director George Larson issued a prepared statement Tuesday afternoon, saying that in light of events surrounding Gill, the center was assessing the quality and continuity of its care.

But Larson said that on the advice of the center's attorney he would not comment further on the matter.

The statement reads as follows: "We have been contacted by state authorities regarding the allegations against Charles Gill and are cooperating with them pursuant to our obligations under the law.

"Charles Gill performed his last services in behalf of the health center on Nov. 22, 1994. We are naturally very concerned about the implications of these allegations upon our patients, and are conducting an inquiry to assess the care provided to them and to assure that they receive the quality and continuity of treatment that they have a right to expect from the Bethel Area Health Center.

"We are also conducting an inquiry to assess the ramifications of the allegations against Mr. Gill upon the health center itself.

"In light of the sensitivity of the rights of both our patients and Mr. Gill, we decline further comment at this time."

Directors nix privatization

By WENDY HANSKOM

SAD44 School Board directors will look no further into privatizing some district functions.

Bethel director Merton Brown had proposed that the board vote on whether or not the district should study privatization. But the board voted unanimously last week against the study.

Most of the board members who spoke on the issue said they were not opposed to a study, but didn't want it to cost the district money. Several also said they thought ultimately they'd be opposed to privatization because of the loss of local control over teachers, bus drivers and other employees and programs.

Brown said he voted against his own agenda item because, "I could see the handwriting on the wall and nobody at that level was interested. If the citizens who talked to me are interested in pursuing it, then I guess it will have to be a grassroots effort. I could see the board wasn't interested."

THIS WEEK AT THE

Moses Mason House

The smell of hot mulled cider, the glow of fires in the fireplaces, the flickering of candles, the aroma of fresh Christmas treats, and the melodic resonances of the flute were among the experiences enjoyed by those attending the annual "Christmas with the Masons" at the Dr. Moses Mason House on Thursday evening, Dec. 1.

In the meeting room, the West Parish Congregational Church's Bell Choir provided a concert, followed by Edna York at the piano for group singing of Christmas favorites. The house was decorated, as it might have been in the early 19th century, with berries, boughs and fruit. Special thanks go to the Bell Choir, to Edna York, to Gretchen Ewalt for playing the flute, and to guides Lorrie Hoch, Judy Haskell, Helen Morton, Sylvia Wight and Shireen Vincent for their role in making the event once again a highlight of the year.

Following "Christmas with the Masons," a short business meeting was conducted by society president Charles Raymond. He announced that the next meeting would feature the annual "So You Think You Know Bethel" on Jan. 5. The president called attention to the fact that the society would once again hold its 25-percent-off sale and that the "Gift of the Month" was a copy of society curator Randall Bennett's new book on the history of the White Mountains. This was a gift from the author. A slide show of old photos made during the past year followed the business meeting.

Presently a thousand members strong, the Bethel Historical Society is Western Maine's largest and most comprehensive full-time local historical society, dedicated to preserving and interpreting the region's past. Its activities include monthly meetings, exhibits, lectures, special events, school programs and publications. The society's operations are housed in its headquarters, the Dr. Moses Mason House (1813), which contains a period house museum, meeting room, research facilities, and office. Its quarterly, "The Bethel Courier," is sent to more than 1100 members and friends throughout the United States, Canada and Europe.

Androscoggin to be tested weekly

BETHEL--The Bethel Pollution Prevention Team has made tentative plans to begin testing Androscoggin River water quality weekly from late May to late September. Up to five sites in the greater-Bethel area could be tested. The sites targeted include the Shelburne Dam in New Hampshire, the Route 2 bridge in Gilead, Newt's Landing in West Bethel, Bridge Street in Bethel and the junction of the Bear and Androscoggin rivers in Newry. The group will probably monitor E. coli bacteria, dissolved oxygen, water temperature and turbidity. The cost of testing the water next summer would be about $500. The group will seek donations from organizations and individuals to cover the cost, and would like to find someone who commutes regularly to Portland to transport the samples.

Practical joke with baby not so funny

AUBURN--An Auburn mother and area police got a scare last week when a 15-month-old baby girl was taken from a car on Flanders Street. For 45 minutes, police frantically search for the daughter of Susan Tyler, 19, after the child was reported missing from the car, parked in Tyler's driveway. Tyler left the child briefly to run into the house for some items, police said. Authorities had called a police dog to the scene, but before it arrived, Robert Howard, 22, also of Flanders Street, called to report that the baby was with him in West Paris. Howard told police he took the child to teach the mother not to leave the baby alone in a car. Howard, who is married to Tyler's sister, was issued a summons charging a Class D misdemeanor of criminal restraint. Police said the young-ster was with Howard the entire time and was never in danger. "He loves that child to death, said Betty Tyler, Susan's mother. "We don't want him coming off looking like a bad guy. ... He's really sorry. He didn't mean to cause all of this. He learned a lesson as well as us." An Auburn police detective said the entire incident, including Howard's charge, "should teach everyone a lesson not to leave a child unattended in a car, and never to take a child" without informing the parent or guardian.

Andover/MCI settle for $33,826

ANDOVER--The town has tentatively agreed to pay MCI Telecom-munications Corporation a tax abatement of $33,826, according to selectman Kathy Williamson. The recent agreement with the company would spare the town costly litigation. The abatement is in settlement of the company's tax appeals, which date back to 1988. The town has also agreed to drop MCI's 1994 assessment to $3.5 million. "The 1995 tax as-sessment would be for $4.5 million," Williamson said. "We will work forward from this point for future years, making adjustments for depreciations and any improvements added. We have agreed to make payment of this abatement within 30 days." An informational meeting on the settlement proposal will be held Dec. 12 at 7 p.m. at the Town Hall. The town's attorney and assessor will be at the meeting.

Bennett's new book now available

BETHEL--Randall H. Bennett's new book "The White Mountains," is now available at the Bethel Historical Society. The book is a chronologi-cal record of the people, localities and events of the White Mountains of western Maine and northern New Hampshire. The 128-page book fea-tures more than 200 photographs, documents and engravings from the author's private collection, as well as those of other collectors and histor-ical societies. Bennett is curator of the Bethel Historical Society. His book is available by mail for $14.99 plus $3 for shipping (Maine resi-dents should add 6 percent sales tax) from the Bethel Historical Society, Box 12, Bethel, Maine 04217. The book may also be purchased at the historical society's gift shop or in selected bookstores.

Newry needs Planning Board alternate

NEWRY--Selectmen are looking for an alternate to join the town's Plan-ning Board. A vacancy was created recently when Brooks Morton resigned and alternate David Walker was moved up to full-member status. Anyone interested in the position should contact a selectman. Other Planning Board members are chairman Don Sanstrom, Joe Aloisio, Cindy Brown, Hugh Lynch, Brian Hanscom and Joanne Mercier.

West Paris may get waste storage site

WEST PARIS--Brian Rogers of Otisfield, owner of BAR Co., hopes to purchase a 63-acre site and buildings in West Paris and open a waste storage business. There would be disposal on site, Rogers recently told selectmen. The facility will be used to load refuse and later haul it to a disposal facility. Rogers expected the station will process 10,000 to 12,000 tons of trash in the first year.

Tourism booms in Maine

AUGUSTA--Maine spent $326,898 this spring to promote tourism and paid big dividends -- $36.9 million in spending by visitors and $2.4 mil-lion in taxes. Officials are calling the ad campaign an overwhelming suc-cess. The campaign targeted on the East Coast from New York to Wash-ington, D.C. Rangeley used a $53,954 grant to target eastern Massachu-setts. Rangeley tourism officials estimate the campaign generated an addi-tional $460,000 for merchants there. A 20 percent drop in tourists from Canada prompted the new advertising campaign, according to state tourism officials.

Boise breaks safety record

RUMFORD--Boise Cascade Corp. recently broke its old production records and reached another milestone in its safety program. Employees at the paper mill recorded one million safe hours during November. A safe hours is defined as a period in which a worker hasn't been injured seriously enough that they can't report for the next scheduled work day, according to company officials. Last month the company also broke pulp and paper production records. The mill produced 1,691 tons of pulp and paper per day last month, beating the previous record of 1,662 set in June 1993. Boise has reached the 1,600-ton mark only four or five times in its history, according to company officials.

From the Bethel Police log: Harassing hassle

Dec. 3 a Bethel IGA employee told police a Gilead woman and her son were harassing him at work. The man signed a police order asking that the harassment stop. The Gilead woman called police to say the man's claim was false and she wasn't happy being served with the papers. Police told the woman that no criminal charges were involved. The woman indicated she would probably speak with her attorney and the Bethel chief of police.

Monday, Dec. 5 --
At 5:20 p.m. police received a report of debris in the road and removed a board with exposed nails from Route 26.

Saturday, Dec. 3
At 2:40 a.m. a newspaper delivery man reported that he could smell "hot plastic" at a Main Street business. The owner was notified.

Friday, Dec. 2
At 4:40 p.m. a Bailey Road woman reported her 5-month-old female bull mastiff puppy had wandered off.

Thursday, Dec. 1
At 10:22 p.m. a Route 5 man complained that a neighbors idling vehicle was too noisy. The vehicle left before police arrived.
At 10:40 p.m. a Sids employee reported seizing a false I.D. card. The card's owner left before police arrived.

Accidents
Nov. 11 - At 5:18 p.m. Dennis M. McLeod, 43, of Bethel hit a deer on Route 2. Damage to his 1985 Nissan was estimated at $500.

This report highlights points of interest from the Bethel Police De-partment log, but does not include all reports of police activity.

Leaving NOVA would be a com-plicated process. Each NOVA-member SAD or town would be re-quired to vote on whether or not to let SAD44 out.

Four of the seven "entities" that belong to NOVA would have to be in favor of SAD44 leaving, and a two-thirds vote is required, not a simple majority.

Jenkins said he doubted that resi-dents of SAD43, SAD21, Peru and Hanover could be persuaded to al-low SAD44 to pull out -- especially with SAD44 paying about a fifth of the NOVA budget.

NOVA Director Dewaine Craig, a former SAD44 superintendent, said student apathy toward NOVA and low attendance numbers are not new problems for the local district.

"If you only have 16 kids but you have 40 slots open, that's SAD44's problem, not NOVA's," Craig said. "I said that when I sat in (Jenkins) chair. This isn't a new problem for SAD44. It's not any easy problem

for SAD44 (to fix)."

surge for a brief moment. The surge blew a fuse which then shut off the power. But when the lines touched there was a surge and it damaged some people's appliances."

Power surges of this nature are rare, da Silva said.

"Fortunately, it's not a common occurrence," she said. "We don't have a lot of situations where we have transmission wires running above distribution wires."

The last surge of this type was at least six years ago, she claimed.

But Strickland said he's not sure when the damage was done -- when the pole was hit or when CMP turned the power on three hours later.

"The big debate with CMP is when the surge happened," Strick-land said. "I and a number of people were up when the power came back on and we say it happened then. My VCR came on for a little while, blinking, and then smoke started rolling out of it."

"At least a third of the people here don't have insurance," he said.

But CMP won't be reimbursing its customers for their damaged ap-pliance, da Silva said.

"This was not something we could control, so there's no responsibility to us," she said. "Customers should contact their homeowners insurance agents. The insurance company of the person that hit the pole may be responsible. But we have no con-nection with the person who caused the accident."

However, Sue Forkus of Wood-stock thinks CMP could have avoided the accident by moving the pole that carries the two types of lines.

"That pole gets hit quite frequent-ly," Forkus said. "I can't think of a year it hasn't been hit since I've been here. My question is why is it still here?"

Charles Jacobson, administrative director of the Public Utilities Com-mission, said even if CMP was at fault, the PUC can't force them to pay up.

"We don't have the authority to force CMP to pay for any damages that may have resulted," Jacobson said, "and that's assuming CMP is star, Craig said, such as offering more courses here. But, he cau-tioned that even when NOVA courses have been offered at Telstar in the past, not all the available slots were filled.

"There have been two courses at Telstar so far this year," Craig said, "and neither class is full. There are no transportation problems and no leaving-their-peers problems."

Craig has also proposed changing the NOVA day so that vocational students put in more time in the program -- something SAD44 ad-ministrators say would be difficult to deal with.

Greater-Rumford area students must now wait for Telstar students to arrive before most NOVA classes begin.

Telstar students arrive at about 8:40 a.m. and must leave between 1:15 and 1:30 p.m. to catch buses home, Craig said.

Craig would like all NOVA courses to begin at 8 p.m. and end around 2 p.m., he said.

Some courses do start earlier than Telstar students arrive, Craig said. Telstar students are sometimes transported in private vehicles to NOVA work sites, he said. They ar-rive after their classmates from other schools have already started their day.

In November, the NOVA board tabled a decision on whether or not to lengthen the program's day. But NOVA directors are expected to take it up again this month, Craig said.

SAD44 board chairman Margaret Hand is also a NOVA director. She said last week she thought the NOVA board would give SAD44 more time to come up with a plan to include Telstar students in a longer NOVA day.

"It's just another way Telstar stu-dents are getting the short end of the stick at NOVA," Hand said.

The next full-board NOVA meet-ings is scheduled for Dec. 20.

Thanksgiving Day guests of Bill and Phyllis Bancroft were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Halle of Lisbon Falls and son Greg from University of Maine-Orono, daughter Stephanie and husband, and Mrs. Grace Morrill. Bill suffered a fall and had to be moved to Stephens Memorial Hospital for a severely injured leg. He will soon be moved to a rehabilitation center for therapy.

We spent the holiday with the Bean-Turner family in Otisfield and were joined by the Adamsons from Hanover, Erin and friend from Portland, and Frank Bean and Lilla Sylvester. In the early evening we rode to the Portland Jetport to meet Sylvia Swan, Sheri, Tami and Christopher Swan, who had flown to Maine from Alaska. We drove them to their new residence in Auburn. I spent the next two days with them.

Friday night, the other girls came and picked up Sylvia and all went to Portland to see the ballet performance of "The Nutcracker," in which little Kaitly Gatchell performed as one of the little reindeer.

Recent callers here have been Ed and Eleanor Froehette and Mark Bean of Oxford Street, South Paris and Mrs. Eva Barker of Norway Rustfield Village; also Mrs. Dottie Adams.

Our deepest sympathy is extended to the families of Mrs. Marion Arsenault, who passed away Monday morning at the home of her son and family in South Paris.

Mrs. Dottie Adams came up and got me Tuesday morning and drove me to the Rumford hospital for my blood test, then later in the day we had to go to Auburn.

Kim Brown reports that her mother has bought a new car.

Upton

By ARLINE BERNIER

The Upton School board met Wednesday afternoon at the Town Office with SAD44 Superintendent of Schools Ron Jenkins. It was decided to begin work on the budget at the first January meeting. The pending lawsuit brought on by Robert Dapalito will be in deposition in Bethel with attorneys representing both parties and the parties present.

The Upton selectmen requested that the school board attend their next meeting to discuss an undisclosed matter.

The Upton town truck caught on fire while it was being used on East B Hill road. Help was not available quickly enough, and the truck was totaled.

Several from town attended the annual Craft Show in Errol, N.H. Abnaki Craftsmen of Upton had a table with a display of crafts from three Upton households.

good day and lots to be thankful for. Fred Fox and friends have gone to Arizona for a two-week vacation.

Troy Nelson shoveled and sanded one day for Gladys Kilgore. People around town have been plowing and shoveling out after our first real snowstorm of the season.

Lawrence Dadmun and friends from Damariscotta were in town this past weekend tearing down more of his old barn.

The Stoneham Volunteer Firemen held their monthly meeting on Tuesday night with about seven members present. They have two new radios and two new sets of gear are ordered. They plan to burn Jim Morrison's old farmhouse in the future for one of their training projects.

Christmas decorations are being put up already in town. It's always nice to see the pretty lights and wreaths, etc., for everyone to enjoy.

were none. I am improving but still lame and sore.

Mr. and Mrs. John Betts had their children and their families over the holidays.

At the farm the Holt families met for the day, Thursday, and had a wonderful day. There were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Holt, Dan and Jennie Windsor; Mr. and Mrs. David Holt and Mary of Norway; Mr. and Mrs. Leonas Holt, Ann Holt, Holly and I. Other families in town observed Thanksgiving with their families.

Mr. and Mrs. Fran Piccirillo and two children, Lisa and James, spent the holidays in Rhode Island.

Mr. and Mrs. Nestor Tamminen celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary on Nov. 27. We all send them love and wish them well.

North Newry

By GIL SEELEY

Services were held at the Newry Community Church Sunday morning, Nov. 27, with Pastor Rodney Hanscom at the pulpit and daughter Nancy at the organ. The Message of the Day was: "Hear Ye," from Scriptures St. Luke 21:25-36.

Six members of the "Newry Bowling Gang" were at the Oxford Lanes, Rumford one day last week: Karlene Bacheider, Betsy Clark, Gil Seeley, Sylvia Wight, Bea Lowell and Olive Anderson. Jim Anderson was a guest. On the overall scores, Karlene was high on the triples and singles with one string of 111 and a triple of almost 300, lacking only two pins. Of the "Righties," Sylvia was high on both the singles and triples. Karlene had six spares and one strike, Betsy had two spares, Gil had one spare, Sylvia had three spares, and Bea had one spare.

Attention everyone... On Thursday, Dec. 8, at 12 noon, Crystal Lake will be installed as Newry postmaster at the Newry Town Office. All are invited to attend this event. Refreshments will be served after the installation. Come and say hello to Crystal and wish her the best.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hadfield of Fairhaven, Mass., spent the Thanksgiving weekend at their place on Branch Road. They were guests at Irene Hadfield's for Thanksgiving dinner.

Thanksgiving dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lowell, Jr., and sons were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lowell and Vicki, David Lowell and daughters Marie and Heather, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lowell, Sr.

Kevin, Lynn and Joe Barry of Marston Mills, Mass., spent Thanksgiving week with Irene Hadfield on Branch Road, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard O'Connor and two sons, also of Marston Mills, Mass., were weekend guests.

Locke Mills

By LORRAINE MILLS

Gary Fuller spent the Thanksgiving Holidays with his parents, brother and sisters in Covina, Calif.

I mentioned in my last column that I would tell more about the Thanksgiving dinner put on by our church, Praise Assembly of God, in Mexico, if I survived it. Well, I survived it, but the Tuesday before I was to write the column I went to Norway for tests and ultrasounds at Stephens Memorial Hospital. I thought I needed the exercise, so I used the stairs, and on the fourth run I felt something give in my knee. I managed to haul myself up by the railing and hail a hospital employee.

A nurse brought a wheelchair and I took a detour to the emergency room and then to X-ray, then back to the last ultrasound, then back to emergency where the doctor told me the X-ray showed no broken bones but the muscle around the cartilage was torn. I could not bear the slightest weight on it, so I called around and Jean Grover came and got me, and Owen and Debbie Brown went down and got my car after work. I am now able to get around somewhat on crutches, but after a little while on it, it begins to ache badly. It doesn't help that I did the same thing to the other knee eight years ago, and it still bothers by spells.

Vera Cross has some warming news to tell us. Workmen are in the process of putting in a new furnace for her. Should be a blessing on a cold, windy, winter night.

More warming news, this time heartwarming in that our church between walk-ins and take-outs served about 175 Thanksgiving dinners. We had a lot of support from the community, which was nice. We also hope other Rumford area churches will join us in providing a dinner every two weeks. It is still in the planning stage, but the first one will be Wednesday, Dec. 7 (which happens to be my birthday, and I was hoping to be able to work on the dinner until the knee business happened). So far we are not sure where the dinner will be held, but hopefully we will soon. Twice a month isn't much, I suppose, out of 30 days, but if we do our bit and others do theirs we hope to eradicate hunger, in that area at least.

Gerry Shimamura took me to Norway Thursday, where I had a bone scan at Stephens Memorial. Those are the ones you get up early for, they give you a shot and tell you to come back three hours later! We filled in the time by going to Bridgton.

Omitted last week from Joan and Phelps Poland's family Thanksgiving gathering, on Saturday, were Tim and Patty Poland and Todd and Linda Poland. A good time was had by all.

I visited with Carol Hall while waiting for the parade in Norway last Saturday. We had the opportunity to wait in the real estate office located by the Medicine Shoppe, so had a bird's eye view, and also kept warm. I met Melvin Olson's daughter, Lori Jewell, and Ben Tucker, who run the office. We all had a good time chatting while waiting for the parade to start.

For Thanksgiving Carol and Neal Hall had Matthew York, Faith Walker, Kevin Hall and Donna and family, and Carol's sister (forgot to get her name).

Something I forgot to mention last week was that Richard Wing and I had a visit from an old friend and used-to-be neighbor, Gibby Haskell. We lived beside Gibby when he was in high school and hadn't seen him for years. I was surprised to find he had a mobile home near us that he comes to once in a while. We had a good visit and talked about old times. Hope to see him and his wife again soon.

Those getting deer not mentioned before are James Hutchinson and Albert Silver.

Birthdays being celebrated in December are: Jim Mason, Jr., Paul Benson and Pam Benson, Cleo Ryerson, James Dunn, Phil Merrill, Ryan Wing, Arden Andrews, Lillian Herrick. I know there are more and will try to find out who next time. Also, my brother Leon L. Poland, Jr., who was killed in the Vietnam conflict, would have been 47 on Dec. 1. I always think of him on his birthday each year.

Curator Larry Billings, Woodstock Historical Society, reports that Ruby Emery writes many of the reports the research committee gives at society meetings. Annie Crockett and Verna Swan are both long-time members of the society, and Earle Noyes can tell you much about Woodstock's history. Mr. Billings recently read some guidebooks on the New England states, and he enjoyed them very much.

'Messiah' performance Sunday

The Mahoosuc Arts Council will host a performance of Handel's "Messiah" on Sunday, Dec. 11, at 4 p.m. at the West Parish Congregational Church in Bethel. Optional rehearsals for the chorus are from 1 to 3 p.m. on Dec. 11 at the church.

Handel's oratorio, "Messiah," is written in three parts and includes the rousing Hallelujah Chorus. It was completed during the 24 days between Aug. 22 and Sept. 14, 1741. After one rehearsal, it was performed for the first time at a charity concert held in Dublin, Ireland, on Aug. 13, 1792. It was not until approximately one year later that it was heard in London. However, since that time, it has probably had more performances than any master work in the history of music. Handel originally composed the "Messiah" for a community chorus and orchestra.

This community sing has been brought back by popular request. The chorus will be under the direction of Jonathan Smith and will be accompanied by Faye Hill. Members of the community are welcome to participate by enjoying the performance as audience members or by singing in the chorus. Messiah scores will be provided on a limited basis for you to sing along and share in the spirit of the season. Please bring your own well-worn copy if you have one. Donations for the Messiah Sing will be accepted at the door. Call the Mahoosuc office, at 824-3575, for more information.

X-C ski center introduces handicapped ski program

Steve and Peggy Wight, owners of Sunday River Inn & Cross Country Ski Center, have established a handicapped ski program at the center.

Central to the creation of the program were facilities and staff, the Wights said. This fall the inn was renovated for greater handicap access, and Karen Knight, a founder of Maine Accessible Adventures and a certified therapeutic recreational specialist, joined the ski center staff.

Coincidentally, last summer Steve Wight was on a canoe trip and met Craig Gray, a paraplegic and a national competitor in wheelchair sports from Scarborough, Gray, who skis on the U.S. Disabled XC Ski Team and is contender for the national championship, expressed interest in helping to get the program started.

Also, Gray and his brother-in-law design and manufacture adaptive cross-country equipment and agreed to make their products available to the center. With the help of Knight and Gray, the center plans to tailor skiing lessons to individual skills and abilities and will modify equipment and pace the instruction according to the needs of each skier.

The program will run each Tuesday throughout the ski season and at other times by special arrangement.

For information on this and other programs offered by Sunday River Cross Country Ski Center, please call 824-2410.

THOUGHTS FROM THE Pastor's Study

The Bethel Area Clergy Association, with the help of pastors of surrounding churches, brings you these meditations. Not based on any set theme, they will be individual for each pastor. It is hoped you will find in these words comfort and hope for your daily life.

The Christmas season approaches and the advent is upon us.

To us, as we make our preparation, it is now the Christmas season -- gifts to buy, cards to send, parties to prepare, and all other such tasks we must perform, as we prepare for our civil Christmas.

As we think of our religious seasons of the year, we recognize advent as the time of the approach of our Lord, Jesus Christ. Both of His first coming and of His second.

The word advent means an arrival, to come, taken from the Latin word adventus.

We recognize its meaning to concern the two comings of Christ, which we celebrate the four Sundays immediately preceding Christmas.

When we think back to the days of the saints of old, how diligently they waited for the arrival of the promised Messiah, the prophets spoke out God's promise to their people for generations.

The people waited with hope, their faith in God's promise making them certain the Messiah would soon come.

But many doubted, undoubtedly some even felt it would never be. Upon His arrival, what did they see? A babe. Not one they could look upon as a conqueror, one that could deliver them from their enemies.

Sin was then, and sin is today, our worst enemy. It is what separates us from life and death.

We, today, wait again for the coming of the Messiah, the return of Jesus Christ. He will come on that final day to judge the quick and the dead.

As we, at this time, prepare for our civil Christmas, let us more so prepare for that same Christ's second coming. Remember His words in St. John 3:16-17, "For God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish but have everlasting life. For God sent His Son not into the world to condemn the world; but that the world, through Him might be saved." Or Paul's words in 1st Cor. 15:55-57, "Oh death, where is thy sting? Oh grave, where is they victory? The sting of death is sin; and the strength of sin is the law. But thanks be to God, which giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ.

Rodney H. Hanscom, Pastor Newry Community Church
